

Where Are the New Course Maps?

Written by John Estle, co-Director
Wednesday, 29 August 2012 10:26 -

A number of people have asked about new course maps. They are coming, but . . .

we don't want to put out a new map until we have all the mile markers in the correct locations. "Version control" can be a big problem. We do not want incorrect maps floating around, so we are holding off producing new maps for the moment.

Our course people have the new locations for just about all the marathon miles, so we should be able to produce something very soon. Keep an eye on this website for information about the publication date for updated maps.